PLAT/LAND MODIFICATION PERMIT REVIEW PROCESS

The applicant must first file a Pre-Application for the plat or land modification request. Following the review, you will be advised by the Planning Division if the application has been accepted as submitted and/or if corrections or additional material is needed. Part of the pre-application review is to assess the type of application request(s) required.

This application is to be used for modifications to existing lot/parcel boundaries. Plats refer to a preliminary plat, final plat, or replat. Preliminary and final plats involve the creation of 4 or more lots or 2 or more lots if a new street is required. A replat is necessary when modifying or reconfiguring property lines and easements of record. Other land modifications within the Town are categorized as administrative or non-administrative. Administrative land modifications refer to lot line adjustments/combinations, easement modifications, or exempt lot splits greater than 2.5-net acres into 2 or 3 parcels of land that may be on a subdivided or un-subdivided property. Non-administrative land modifications include lot splits on parcels equal to or less than 2.5-net acres (most common), lot splits with the creation of a new road, deviations to development standards, release of easements, or administrative land modifications on Special Use Permit (SUP)-zoned property.

Deviations from development standards refers to deviations as described in Article 6-8 of the Town Code. Deviation examples include alternative turn-around designs from a standard cul-de-sac and modifications in applying the lot configuration of Section 6-3-5.G of the Town Code. These deviations require Planning Commission recommendation and Town Council approval in which the applicant must demonstrate extraordinary hardships that results from the strict compliance with these regulations. However, certain deviations require a variance from the Town's Board of Adjustment if it concerns requirements from the Town Zoning Ordinance. Variance examples include reducing the private local road right-of-way width less than 50 feet, requesting a right-of-way easement, and reducing the lot width as required in Table 1001-A1 of the Zoning Ordinance. Variances require a stricter level of hardship test.

Once applied, Town staff will review the plat/land modification application submittal to ensure it is complete. The Planning Division strives to provide comments back on or before 15 working days after each submittal. Plats and non-administrative land modification applications require meeting(s) with the Planning Commission and/or Town Council for work session review, recommendation, and/or action. Whereas, administrative land modification applications are approved at a staff level. Public meeting(s), where recommendation or action takes place, have noticing requirements (please refer to the Notification section of this application). The length/time of an application request depends upon the complexity of the request, completeness of the application, the amount of time an applicant takes to resubmit corrections, new issues that arise during the review process, among other factors. Refer to Chapter 6, Subdivisions, of the Town Code for more information. Outlined below are key process steps by application type:
